Coach Stahley Resigns Post

'Agamemnon' Premiere Scheduled For Friday

• CURTAIN-TIME for "Agamemnon," the University Players' second production of the season, will be at 8:30 p. m., Thursday and Friday nights, in Lisner Auditorium.

Under the direction of Dr. Natalie White, of the speech department, the Greek tragedy by Aeschylus has been adapted to modern staging by Miss Edith Hamilton, translator.

Cast in the lead roles are Dorothy Ohliger, as Clytemnestra; Henry Danilowicz, as Agamemnon; Velaska Griffin, as Cassandra; and Gene Picciano, as the Herald.

Supporting cast members include John Burke, in the role of Aegisthus; Stanley Telchin, as the Watchman; and George McGuinness, as the leader of the Citizens of Argos.

The Citizens of Argos are Louise Gertz, Mazeppa King, Nellie Brooks, Jeanne McGregor, Jean Glenn, Robert Knapp, Robert Rainsbury, Julian Singman, and Dick Meier.

Appearing under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Burtner, associate professor in the department of physical education, the dancing Citizens of Argos include Greta Atkin, Katherine Killeen, Elizabeth Logan, Phyllis Sheppy, Louise Whiting, Joe Koach, Tom Pence, and Ronald Ross.

Presentation of the drama is in the tradition of the Greek archaic period, contemporary with the fall of Troy. This archaic precedence gives brilliant color and form to the set designs produced by Donald C. Kline, associate professor in the art department.

Mood music and music for the dance were composed by Miss Virginia Csonka, accompanist and composer for Miss Burtner. Members of the woodwind orchestra are Richard Scott, Glenn Snyder, and Howard Stambler.

Tickets at $1.20, general admission, and 90c, with the student activity card, are still available in the Lisner Auditorium box office, according to Harry Raker, business manager of the University Players.

Located at 21 and H Streets, N. W., the box office is open daily from 1 to 5 p. m. Telephone reservations may be made from 1 to 10 p. m. by calling National 5055.

Prof. Oppenheim To Assume Duties Of Dean VanVleck

• PROFESSOR Saul Chesterfield Oppenheim has been named acting dean of the University Law School for the winter term by President Cloyd Heck Marvin.

Professor Oppenheim has already assumed the duties made necessary by the absence of Dean William Cabell VanVleck, who is recuperating from a recent illness.

Professor Oppenheim, who has been a member of the University faculty since 1927, is a well-known authority on trade regulations. A casebook written by him on that subject, now used in 32 law schools throughout the country, has been revised and is being published in two sections.

He holds the degrees of Juris Doctor and Doctor of Juridical Science from the University of Michigan Law School, and the bachelor and master of arts degrees from Columbia University.

Marvin Issues Book On Past, Future Of GW

• PLANS FOR THE University of the future and the history of the University in the past are described in a book soon to be issued by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin.

The volume is being issued by Dr. Marvin on the completion of 20 years as President of the University. This book entitled "A University in the Nation's Capital" will be presented to 16,000 graduates now living in the United States and abroad, to more than 12,000 students presently enrolled, and to the Faculty, Trustees and other friends of the University.

As a report of the efforts of students and leaders of the University, thumb nail sketches of the presidents and a history of the institution from its founding by early statesmen and churchmen in 1821 are included. The roles of George Washington, James Monroe, John Quincy Adams, and Luther Rice, Baptist leader, are vividly recounted with personal notations of these men, and with little known facts about the development in the early period.

A sketch of the original University building brings to the spotlight the original photograph of this building, which is now kept by the Librarian, Russell Mason, in his Curator of Art files. From this photograph was drawn the original watercolor and pencil picture by the CIRA pharmaceutical products company for a historical series this member of which is now framed in Mr. Mason's office in the Library.

Mr. Mason also has a manuscript diary, entitled "A Very Juvenile Diary" beginning in 1859, of George Y. Coffin, a student of that period who described what happened to a person attending this University.

The future is featured in a photographic prospectus of the University showing the grounds bounded by Pennsylvania Avenue, New Hampshire Avenue, the Potomac River, F Street and 19 Street. This area within walking distance of the White House and the monuments to George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and Thomas Jefferson has been approved as the (See BOOKLET, Page 3)

Max Farrington Summons Staff In Emergency

By IRA KALFUS

• NEIL (SKIP) STAHLEY has left George Washington University and the present football coaching status is in the dark.

Max Farrington, Director of Men's Activities, has already called an emergency meeting of the athletic council, so as to determine a possible successor. Present Colonial football plans call for spring practice about March 15, and the council expects to name a coaching staff before that time.

Stahley requested a release from his coaching duties over the week end and Farrington accepted. Stahley's three-year contract with the school had one year to run, but it had been rumored that the likeable Colonial mentor would not be around for the 1948 season.

While Stahley would not immediately divulge his new assignment, it was learned late last night that Skip had accepted a backfield coaching position at the University of Washington.

Coach Stahley came to George Washington in 1946, from San Diego Navy coaching job. He had considerable success out on the Coast, and George Washington, in an expansive mood, grabbed him upon his naval release. Prior to coaching at San Diego, Stahley was head football coach at Brown University. Stahley was also assistant coach at Harvard under Dick Harlow. Skip opened his coaching career at Western Maryland at the age of 20, also serving under Dick Harlow.

Until last year Stahley has had the enviable record of never having had a losing season. However, this past year the Colonials could only win one ball game while losing seven, and playing Georgetown to a popular 0-0 deadlock.

Max Farrington, has no idea as to the possible identity of the George Washington football coach, but was fairly certain it would be no one connected with the present coaching staff.

The final winner will be presented at the dance.

Kayser Rounds Globe in Hour For 'World Today' Audience

By EDITH VENEZKY

• DEAN ELMER LOUIS Kayser went around the world in sixty minutes as he briefly surveyed political trends of all parts of the globe in a public lecture at Lisner Auditorium last Wednesday.

An audience of over 750 heard the Dean's address on "The World Today" which marked the second event of the Colonial Program Series of entertaining and informative programs arranged by the Student Council and the General Alumni Association.

Although the Dean concluded that there is not at present an immediate threat of "A considered war on basic causes," he agreed with General Eisenhower's statement that in the tense atmosphere of today's political scene there is a possibility of a rapidly developing "foolish war on foolish causes." He advised that we must not let ourselves be forced into short-sighted action, but must retain our national discipline and national dignity.

Dean Kayser began his world tour by making some observations concerning the United States. In discussing first the uncertainty and insecurity felt by many people in this country, he warned that in the checkerboard game of world politics, failure to move is a move in itself for jumping takes place all the same.

Secondly, the Dean suggested that our "national repugnance to war be re-examined." He assured the audience that no nation can fail to make attempts to prevent war, but he added that "no nation can meet threats of war with pacifism." Finally Dean Kayser advised that the United States "make better use of the experience which we have acquired at so great a cost."

Leaving the United States the speaker then considered Europe. He defined the Communism within is threatening that continent as "a totalitarian state based on great Russia, dominating the thought of Eurasia, except for the western, eastern and southern portions, seeking to influence labor with discontent, making bids to political ambition, stirring minorities and (See KAYSER, Page 5)

A Social Morgue?...

• IT'S A SOCIAL CALENDAR but it's a social flop! We're speaking of the calendar posted on the door of Miss Kirkbride's office in Columbian House.

Why is it a flop? Because there's not a single dance or party listed from now until June which is open to all University students!

Something has got to be done to give GW a social face-lifting. We're mighty tired of the same old Saturday night brawls at the frat house. And we suspect the independents must be getting tired too of the same old Saturday night movie date and beer joint afterward.

The fraternities and sororities can look forward to their respective spring formals and to the lavish Intra-fraternity and Panhellenic Proms. The independent can look forward to his class dance. But no one can look forward to even one dance that is open to all students, without qualification.

There are good professional musicians on the campus who would be glad to play for dances for practically nothing if given the opportunity.

We've got two dance halls waiting to be used any week-end. Sure, we know the Gym and Student Club aren't the swankiest dives in town, to be sure, but they're GW! We can have just as much fun for a buck a couple in either place, with a little planning and decorating, as we can at the Statler's Federal Room for five bucks a throw!

The point is, some campus organizations—the more the better—have got to get us out of our dilemma by sponsoring some All-U functions. Perhaps the classes will help out by admitting all students to their dances. The time is really ripe.

Don't worry, no dance open to all students has yet lost money at this school, if the affair was given sufficient advance publicity. It just takes a little bit of "ways and means" to run a dance—a trip to Miss Kirkbride's office, a talk with Miss Harris about the Student Club, or Mr. Krupa about the Gym, and a small budget to cover the cost of the band. The rest should be easy—publicity, tickets, and decorations—if you have the kind of organization that pulls together.

Well, what's the answer? Is it back to the Saturday night brawls, or can we look forward to seeing how the other half live at an All-U dance or two?

Have You Met...

George Gamow

By Robert M. Adams

• PHYSICIST

GEORGE GAMOW, like all Americans, doodles. But his doodles are more than ordinary ones—they are sketches on the margins of "confidential" copies of official U. S. papers. More about his doodles later.

Dr. Gamow, Professor of Theoretical Physics at the University looks as if he should be coaching our football players in their spring training instead of putting our physics students through their physical and astronomical gymnastics. His rangy 6' 3" frame coupled with his agile mind gives one the impression that he would have been good football material in Odessa, Russia, where he was born forty-four years ago. (In fact, a "Happy Birthday" was in order last Thursday when we interviewed him.) The study of physics, however, interested George Gamow more than football, and after receiving his elementary education in Odessa schools, he worked his way through the University of Leningrad.

"I had an easy job," he told us genially. "I was an observer in a meteorological station—and you know, I took readings on instruments in the morning, at about noon, and again at night."

In between his "readings," mathematics, physics, astronomy, and chemistry took up Prof. Gamow's time. In 1928 he received the Russian degree of Uchony Fysik (learned physicist—equivalent to our Ph.D. degree). Professor Gamow then taught at the University of Göttingen. He also worked with the world-renowned physicist, Niles Bohr, on a theory concerning radio-activity while in Germany.

Before joining the University faculty in 1934, Dr. Gamow taught at the University of Copenhagen, the University of Cambridge, the Academy of Sciences at Leningrad, the University of Paris, the University of London, and the University of Michigan.

Combining teaching and writing, Dr. Gamow presents, in terms comprehensible to the layman, some of the principle theories and discoveries of modern physics together with a discussion of their implications. Some of his books include a new edition of "Structure of Atomic Nuclei and Nuclear Transformations," which he wrote jointly with Charles Critchfield, a former University student. Dr. Gamow's other books are "The Birth and Death of the Sun," "Biography of the Earth," "Atomic Energy in Cosmic and Human Life," "One, Two, Three... Infinity," and the famous "Mr. Tompkins" series.

Mr. Tompkins, a layman, explores the universe, argues with his professor (Dr. Gamow?), and gradually absorbs much of what is known about astrophysics, atoms, and many other phases of nuclear physics. The books are well-illustrated with Dr. Gamow's own sketches, and the reader gets an excellent insight into many of the principles of physics which are often "Greek" to him.

One might suspect physics is Dr. Gamow's whole life, but it's not. There is a little Gamow too—Igor by name. Twelve-year-old Igor gets more excited about cowboys and Indians than he does about physics. Igor has not interested his father in cowboys and Indians, but he has recently interested him in electric trains—so much so that Prof. Gamow and Igor are now "hobbying" in electric trains.

He likes all sports, particularly skiing. Tennis, golf, and sailing are also his favorites.

During the war, Dr. Gamow worked closely with the Navy. He viewed the atomic-bomb tests at Bikini, and there actually saw at work the forces he had long calculated on paper. Dr. Gamow explained that "if we had the high temperatures of millions of degrees, it would be possible to use practically every element to produce energy. So far it is impossible to attain that great amount of heat—which the stars do so quietly."

At present he is consultant in the Office of Naval Research and a member of the Scientific Advisory Board to the Commanding General of the Air Force—where he doodles. Arty but informative sketches adorn his papers and his books—Dr. Gamow's doodles pay off!

Letter To The Editor

Board of Editors
The University Hatchet
The George Washington University
Dear Editors:

Within the last several months more and more students have been demanding: What has happened to the Student Union idea? This letter is designed to answer that inquiry and to show that the proposed Student Union is gradually evolving into a reality.

The student committee named to make recommendations concerning the Student Union returned last November from an inspection tour of over a dozen student unions on the eastern seaboard and immediately set about translating the good ideas witnessed on those campuses into plans for an ideal student union on this campus. The committee has met frequently with University officials and the University-employed architect concerning all phases of the Student Union from the construction to the administrative standpoints.

Some time ago the University purchased the Bender property between the Columbia Hotel and Sorority Hall, thereby making possible a Student Union which will extend from the fire house to Sorority Hall.

Since certain priority was given to the new hospital, actual construction of the Student Union has been postponed. District building regulations provided additional hurdles. At the present time, however, it can be said that the project is in the last phase of the blueprint stage and that construction operations should begin soon. Until certain architectural problems are solved, the committee cannot reveal any specific details concerning facilities and services in the proposed structure.

The committee recognizes the Student Union anxiety prevalent on campus and promises to keep the student body informed on developments in this matter.

Yours very truly,
LEW HOFFACKER,
For the Student Union Committee:
Shirley Smith, Diana Roosevelt, Charles Lillen, William Rockwood, David Wallerstein.

William Warner Fills Hatchet Board Vacancy

• WILLIAM C. WARNER, formerly news editor of The Hatchet, has been appointed to the Board of Editors by the University Committee on Publications. Warner will fill the vacancy left by retiring Editor Jean Ferguson who received her A. B. degree at Winter Convocation.

Dr. Calvin D. Linton, chairman of the Committee on Publications, made known the appointment in a letter in which he added, "The Committee on Publications extends to you every good wish for your success as you undertake your added duties."

Jim Reisch, the present copy editor, has been nominated by the Board to fill Warner's job as news editor. The copy post is still open. With the present appointment the Board of Editors of The Hatchet for the rest of the academic year will be Katrine Neil, Warner, and John Voneiff, Business Manager.

In addition to replacing Miss Ferguson on the Board of Editors, Warner has been recommended by Fremont Jewell, president of Student Council, to replace Miss Ferguson as a student-member of the Student Life Committee.

This Committee is the judicial branch of the University's student government program. Its membership includes five faculty members and six student members.

In addition to his duties on The Hatchet, Warner is serving his second year as president of the University Band and is a charter member of Alpha Theta Nu, scholarship-holders club. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Social Fraternity.

James Oliver Murdock Lectures In Havana

James Murdock

• PROFESSOR James Oliver Murdock, of the University Law School, will deliver a series of eight lectures in comparative research and the scientific development of law at the third annual Inter-American Academy of Comparative International Law in Havana, Cuba on March 8.

The Inter-American Academy of Comparative and International Law is a center of legal studies of continental character. It was established in 1941 by the Inter-American Bar Association at its first conference held in Havana to promote and develop studies of Comparative and International law, especially with reference to countries of America as a means of encouraging coordination in legislative methods and fostering mutual understanding. Approximately 200 students will attend the session.

Professor Murdock, who was appointed to the University staff in 1930, holds the bachelor of laws degree from Harvard University and the bachelor of philosophy degree from the University of Chicago. He has also studied at the University Law School and The Academy of International Law at The Hague.

Professor Murdock has practiced in New York and the District and served as counselor for the State Department from 1927 to 1936. He was secretary to the American Delegation of International Conference of American States on conciliation and arbitration, 1928-1929; counsel for the United States before the International Joint Commission, United States and Canada, 1929-1932; and the counsel for the United States-Sweden Arbitration, 1932.

He is an advocate of preventive law similar to preventive medicine and will stress this in his lectures.

Rep. Mansfield Talks on China To Delta Phi's

• CONGRESSMAN MIKE Mansfield, Democrat from Montana, will talk about China at Friday's Delta Phi Epsilon meeting, to be held at 8:15 in the Sigma Nu Fraternity house, 1622 21 Street.

"Understanding or Misunderstanding, the Basis of International Relationships" was the topic of Professor Roderic Davison's talk at the meeting last Friday evening. Professor Davison, assistant professor of European History, based his talk on the "Operation Understanding" project that the State Department began last year.

He said that the idea behind the project is that an understanding of the economic needs of the people of Europe is needed before any political action can be undertaken. He spoke of the independent relief organizations and their work in Europe toward meeting those economic needs.

George N. Henning, professor emeritus of Romance Languages of the University, was a guest of honor at the meeting. He added comment to Professor Davison's discussion by citing experiences of his own in regards to overseas relief.

According to President, Ed Masters, Delta Phi Epsilon, national foreign service fraternity, is launching a membership campaign. He asks foreign affairs majors and any of those students interested in foreign affairs to contact any member for information, and also invites them to attend Friday's meeting.

Masters says that these weekly guest-speaker meetings of the fraternity are part of its policy to gather information on current topics from people experienced in the respective subjects.

Vet Administration Checks Payments

• REPRESENTATIVES of the Veterans Administration will make another on-the-spot check-up of subsistence payments this month at each school and college in the area.

The purpose of these visits is to eliminate even isolated cases of delayed subsistence payments to veterans studying under the G. I. Bill.

Visits to the University are scheduled for March 10, 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and March 11, 9 a. m. to 12 noon in Columbian House.

Big Carnival Nite In Gym Features Dancing, Prizes

• "CARNIVAL NIGHT on campus" will fill the Gymnasium tomorrow night with cries of "bingo" and the sounds of pitched pennies and thrown darts.

Carnival time is 8:30 p. m. The admission price of 50c and all other proceeds of the Carnival will go to benefit the new University Hospital. Both the active and alumni chapters of Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority are sponsoring the event.

Ray Payne's Orchestra will provide continuous music for dancing, while bingo, penny-pitching, horse-racing, turtle-racing, and dart-throwing will provide opportunity for the more adventurous souls to try for prizes.

An "Identification Dance" will be a feature of the Carnival. The orchestra will play a succession of campus sorority songs, and members of sororities present with their escorts will identify their own song by dancing during the playing of it.

Grand Prize of the Carnival will be awarded at the intermission to the person who catches one of the balloons released from the ceiling which has the lucky number.

All prizes have been donated by local merchants and include some choice items such as jewelry from B. Michaelson Company, flowers from Colony and Blackstone Florists, a meal ticket from the Ted Lewis Restaurant, and men's wear from Dave Margolis.

Tickets are obtainable from Vivian Balfour at the Sorority apartment, 802 - 21 Street, or may be purchased at the Carnival.

● TRUE TO STATEMENT March rolled in like a lion. Here's hoping that it will go out like a lamb, cuz the Hatchet office is more than chilly these days.

Rumors are flyin' around that there will be a Sophomore-Junior sponsored all-school dance in the Student Club April 3.

The PIKA's are off this weekend to the University of Delaware to install a new chapter on that campus... The Tekes held their Wild West Party a week ago Saturday night. During the evening some sweet soul made off with the plaque from the front of the house. Latest reports are that it has been recovered from an undisclosed hiding place.

The Phi Sigs are having Founders' Day celebration Sunday. A dance orchestra is scheduled to play at 3, supper will be served at 6... Sigma Nu had a South of the Border party Saturday night. Sunday, the DZ's entertained SAE at a punch party...

Just received the word on 15 of the Kappa Sigs who are now working for the FBI. Beware!... "The Voice of WGW" belongs to Pete Smith, SAE... Helen O'Leary, ZTA, and John LeReche have set the date for May 31st... Floyd Jennings, Argonaut, has given an engagement ring to DG Babs Copeland... Larry Beaver, TKE, and Carol Westbrook are planning on being wed this summer...

Rod Atkinson, Phi Delta Theta with the Argonauts, is engaged to Pat Bell... Ray Howar, Phi Sig, has pinned Robbie Robertson, DZ... Don Deams and Nelia Nordstrom are getting "that way" about each other... John Leppert, SAE, and wife, Cynthia, have departed from the East for California... Kenny Tindle, TKE, is engaged to a cute brunette in Baltimore...

Bob Hollingshead, Argonaut, has pinned his "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair"... The Sig Ep's had a Record Dance Saturday night... The Phi Phi's had a slumber party at Ann Bradshaw's house Thursday night.

APPI's Gloria Rue and Bonnie Nelson had a good time from all reports on their week-end trip up to Haverford... TKE Bob Robinson is finally getting interested in his Spanish. In fact, he literally drools over his book—not to mention the teacher.

The game of Bridge has been disbanded almost entirely in ye olde Student Club by its sitters for the more enticing game of Hearts. The worst blow now is to end up with twenty-five points for one hand instead of going set on a no trump bid, doubled, redoubled, and "vulgar"...

creating social agitation." He added that Communism has made the United Nations "a comic opera full of sound and fury," while a broken world looks for a moral force with power enough to insure peace.

In spite of the recent Russian advances in Europe, which the Dean says will continue as Russia finds new neighbors that must be made "friendly," he saw an encouraging sign in the current conference of France, England and Benelux (Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.) He also felt that the successful resistance made by France and Italy against Communism at the end of 1947 is an important step.

Viewing the Marshall Plan, Dean Kayser observed that it included the whole gamut of economic agreements from "business deals on sound credit basis to grants in aid." The latter item, the Dean noted, is diplomatic lingo for "gifts." The speaker also explained the impossibility of fixing definite amounts on the cost of the plan and the importance of a speedy passage of it by Congress.

After discussing the Greek situation, Dean Kayser moved to Palestine where he considered the dilemma resulting from the conflicting desires for "the Jewish vote and Near Eastern Oil."

Having made some observations concerning India, the Dean stopped next at China. In regard to this nation, he expressed the impossibility of the West changing the impermissible race behaviors which characterize that country and which are at the root of its difficulties.

With a brief word about Korea and Manchuria, Dean Kayser quickly returned to this continent. Here he described the growing nationalism now manifested in the actions of many South American nations.

Back in the United States, viewing our problems as a whole, the Dean stated that at present Russia does not want, nor is ready for, war. He said, however, that as she pushes onward, the verge of war may very well be reached. He urged the audience in the words of Abraham Lincoln: "Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

Kappa Alpha Fetes Agamemnon Cast At Grecian Party

● KAPPA ALPHA fraternity was host last Saturday night at a Grecian motif party given in honor of members of the cast of the Greek tragedy, Agamemnon. Representing the cast were Dorothy Ohliger, who plays the part of Agamemnon's wife, Clytemnestra, and four of her beautiful handmaidens, Lynne Brooks, Jean Claire Glenn, Olga Havell, and Yvonne Innes.

The Kappa Alpha House at 1523 New Hampshire Avenue was completely redecorated in the manner of a Grecian temple for the occasion. Tall waving ferns graced delicate pedestals, and rooms were lighted by candles and flaming torches sprinkled with fragrant spices. Stately marble columns reared in barbaric splendor to the lofty ceilings, and original paintings by Dave Eastman adorned the walls.

Members of Kappa Alpha and their dates all appeared in their own version of Greek attire. Lengthy togas stained with the Tyrian purple vied with multicolored short tunics for the honors of the party. Laurel wreaths and bands of beaten gold adorned the stately brows of the noble Greeks present, while plebeians appeared in all-white togas resembling bed sheets.

Highlights of the evening was a "sneak preview" of Agamemnon by the cast.

BUFF CAGERS FALTER AT DURHAM

Rifle Team Wins Over The Hoyas

• THE COLONIAL Riflers topped Georgetown, 1386 to 1377, Saturday afternoon at the George Washington range. High man for the Buff was Bill Hunley with 283, while Georgetown's Tom Soucy lead both teams with 292.

George Washington (prone, kneeling, standing, total) Hunley, 100, 93, 90—283; Moncure, 100, 96, 85—281; Velly, 100, 97, 83—280; Liberty, 100, 88, 85—273; Bertelsman, 99, 95, 75—269.

• GOING UP—Colonials' Ray "Ace" Adler (20) grabs that elusive basketball as Maynard Halthcock (15), Len Small (in left corner) and Duke's Doug Youmans look on. Bashful Bill Cantwell (10) has his back to camera while Phil McNiff (4) also views the action from the background. Adler couldn't grab enough basketballs at the finish as the Colonials were stopped at Durham, 54-51.

Colonials Eliminated By Duke Unable To Hold Opening Lead

By IRA KALFUS

• THE SECOND SEEDED Colonials fell by the wayside in the opening round of the twenty-seventh Southern Conference Basketball Tourney, dropping a 54-51 heart-breaker to Duke University at Durham, North Carolina.

Cerra Gives Colonials Lead

The overflowing crowd of 8500 howling fans were quickly stunned as the Buffmen shot into a 10-1 lead in the opening minutes of play. Led by Art Cerra, who was driving in and out of the Duke defensemen, the Colonials looked like they were in for an easy night. Cerra was hitting on one-handers from close up to give the Zahnmen a prosperous lead, and it didn't even seem that the Colonials were trying.

At the 10-minute mark George Washington was on top, 20-10, and then the Dukemen woke up. Carl Sapp, substitute Duke forward, found the range on some long set-shots, and trouble was brewing for the Colonials. Corren Youmans, hard-driving Duke sophomore, also took charge for the Blue Devils and was the big gun in a Duke splurge which netted the Dukemen five straight baskets and only a 23-22 deficit in the closing minutes of the first half.

The Colonials, realizing that they were now in a ball game, got back into the act and started to move once again. However, Duke, full of fight and playing before a vastly pro-Duke crowd, would not give an inch. The Colonials got slightly the better of it in the remaining few minutes of the half, and as the gun sounded, it was an insecure 31-27 advantage that the Buff basketekers held.

Duke Gains the Lead

At the start of the second half Duke quickly erased the Colonials' slight margin. Thomas Hughes, Blue Devil guard, hit on two successive pops and it was a new ball game at 31-all. Only two and one-half minutes of the second session got underway before Duke grabbed the lead, which they were never to relinquish.

The Blue Devils, leading for the first time in the contest, 33-32, also started to control the backboards as Adler was rapidly tiring.

With the clock showing six minutes to go, a hot streak of set shooting by Len Small brought the Colonials from a 42-36 disadvantage back into the ball game on the short end of a 46-44 count. At this point Adler committed his fifth foul, Duke gained control of both boards, and the charging Colonials were halted.

Buff Tankmen Nipped By CU In Last Event

By SANDY GOODMAN

• A FAST IMPROVING crew of Colonial tankmen, losers in seven previous meets journeyed crosstown last Thursday night to Catholic University determined to win their second meet of the season at the hands of the Cardinals. However, in a thrilling meet, the outcome of which was not decided until the very last race, the Colonials emerged second best to the tune of a 39-36 score.

As usual, Captain Paul Fite led the Buffman in scoring, personally accounting for eight of the teams points.

Bill Nutter proved himself to be one of the most reliable point getters on Coach Hipsley's squad, as he won the 140 yard back stroke by at least half a lap in 1:44.3. Harold Silva placed for the Colonials by coming in third.

The 200 yard breast stroke was taken by Stan Plummer of C. U. in 2:51.6, with Irving Michaels and Harvey Stanley coming in second and third for the Buff.

The Cardinals followed up this win with one in the 440 yard free style. Bill Kimball took first in 6:28, and was trailed by the Colonials' Paul Edmondson.

The next race, the 40 yard free style, ended in a real photo finish, with the Colonials' Dave Lalor coming in first in 21.6, separated only by inches from the three other. At this point, with the last event of the meet coming up, the 400 yard relay, the Buffman had a lead of 36 to 32. However, seven big points went to the winner of this event and decided the final outcome of the meet. Joe Zahner took a quick lead for the Cardinals and his three team mates managed to hold it, although Gil Scott and Paul Fite closed the gap considerably for the Colonials. The time was 4:13.

Coach Hipsley's men are now looking forward to the D. C. Collegiate Championships to be held March 17 and 18, when they will have another crack at the Cardinals, and also a good chance of taking the local swimming crown.

Sailing Team Opens March 26; Princeton Provides Opposition

By Eric Nordholm

• STARTING SIGNALS FOR the Second Intramural Sailing Series have sounded for the week of March 29 after the inauguration of the '48 sailing season by the Varsity Sailing Team when they meet Princeton on Saturday March 26 and Hobart and Delaware on March 27.

Irv Tittle, Sailing Association Chairman, announced the schedule of races for the Intramural Trophy sponsored by Joe Krupa, Director of Intramural Sports, Thursday when 50 sailing enthusiasts heard Dr. Daniel Borden tell of his trip from Maine to Ontario. Dr. Borden, long a supporter of the University Sailing program described the colored films of a 2 week trip along the fogbound New England Coast and through the historic Erie Barge Canal.

In setting out the schedule for the Spring Series, Tittle stated that the daily schedule will be arranged after entries have been received in order to accommodate the largest number of contestants, but that the races would probably be scheduled for Tuesday and Friday afternoons during the month-long series.

Four races will be scheduled for each afternoon. Each contestant must race in at least 12 of the 16 race series to qualify for the Krupa Cup. Skippers sailing more than 12 races may choose their best 12 races to determine their final standings in these preliminaries. Intramural finals will be held during the week of April 26, again arranged at the convenience of the racing skippers.

Students who can swim and who have passed the Association Helmsman's test are eligible. Entry blanks may be secured at the Intramural Sports Office, Building R, or on the Sailing Association Bulletin board in the Student Club. Final date for acceptance of entries will be one hour before the start of the first race, but entrants are reminded that only ten boats are available. An attempt will be made to schedule races for all entrants, but they will be scheduled at the convenience of the Intramural officials.

The recently adopted North American Yacht Racing rules will govern the series; Protests will be settled as they occur during the series. All entrants in the series are urged to attend a class in racing rules to be given by Varsity Coach Saturday, March 13.

• WITH THE RESIGNATION OF HEAD COACH Skip Stahley in order to accept a more lucrative position as backfield coach under Howie Odell at the University of Washington, "insiders" have suddenly crawled from their caves shouting, "We knew it all the time." As usual, this always happens, however, the situation appears to be less chaotic than they would have you believe since Max Farrington feels that there are a number of good prospects interested in the position. When talk of a new football coach crops up, it inevitably swings around to Alphonse the Great . . . "Tuffy" Leemans. "Tuffy" as everyone knows, is the University's greatest claim to athletic glory, and from a standpoint of advertising, would be a natural for the job. After talking to him on the phone yesterday, I learned that he was very interested but, there's one little catch . . . "Tuffy" has a thriving business of his own here in Washington, and he feels that a full-time coaching position would be impossible. He'd like to be an assistant coach though, and perhaps he will, since Farrington is definitely considering him.

• BASKETBALL IS DONE WITH for another season, and a hundred moments of joy and disappointment now belong to that little file in the section marked memories. Every year, hopes are high for a great season . . . just like this year, however, the final results usually call forth the old cry, "Wait 'til next year." . . . Somebody give me an aspirin.

• IT'S HERE AGAIN! Once a year, University sports fans are treated to a great show, The All-University Boxing and Wrestling championships that are held in the gymnasium. Every season, our unsung masters of the mattress step out to grunt and groan for a capacity house. Joe Krupa has lined up a great show this time and it all will come off this Thursday and Friday evenings in the gym. Let's get out to see the boys in action.

• AMID A FLURRY OF RESIGNATIONS, I'd also like to take this opportunity to tell you that this is the last column you'll be reading from yours truly. . . . Before saying adieu, I'd like to thank everyone for their interest and many letters. I hope that you've enjoyed reading my weekly dissertations, and also hope that I've shed a little light through the darkness.

Boxing Bouts And Wrestling Start Thursday

By BUD STEIN

• INTRAMURAL DIRECTOR Joe Krupa announced Sunday that a record field had been entered in the annual wrestling and boxing tournaments to be held in the University gymnasium Thursday and Friday nights respectively. Festivities get under way each night at 8 p. m.

Pairings have been made for eleven wrestling and nine boxing bouts during the two-day affair.

Boxing bouts which should provide interest pit Fred Schumacher against Frank Smith (145), Herb Kaslow against Paul Foeller (135), Al Bisset against George Bauefnschmidt (155), Dave West, winner of last year's 145-pound title, against Richard Spencer, Dick Nearman against Harold Burleson (122), and Ottis Gordon versus Frank Martins (135).

Rounding out the wrestling and are matches between Tim Ireland and George Bauersnschmidt (155), Aaron Fremahnd and Jay McGaughlin, Fred Schumacher and Harold Pitt (145), Glenn Penny and Robert Merrill (155), George Bannock and George Carey (155), Bud Hebsens and Harvey Prince (165), Mud Flynn and Hal Rausher (175) and Joe Byers and Frank Cavello (unlimited).

Intramural Champion Decided This Week!

• THE SEMI-FINAL Round of the Independent basketball playoffs were completed this week, as the Yankees and Central Commandos waded through quarter-final opposition, with a right to meet each other for the championship of the Independent League.

With Johnny Grinnell and Harvey Shipmen pacing the Yankee attack, the Patent Attorneys, league "C" winner, fell by the wayside in a 31-13 drubbing.

The Commandos led by Al Rector and Gart Mc Dermott, showed surprising strength in their easy win over a good Navy A squad, who was also undefeated champions of League "A". The Commandos in an attempt to be ready for the highly regarded Yankees alternated a zone with a man to man defense and both were considered tough to crack.

S. A. E. Plays Phi Alpha

• THE INTERFRATERNITY league "A" and "B" champions have been established with the completion of fraternity play. S. A. E. finished their schedule in league "A" with an untarnished record of six wins. Phi Alpha finished in league "B" with an impressive slate of seven wins and no losses.

S. A. E. was featured in one of the toughest games of its season, and actually trailed at half time to aggressive Pi K. A. 9-8. However with Kunz showing the way in the second half, S. A. E. caught on and escaped with the 22-17 win.

Phi Alpha had a much easier time at the expense of Delta Tau Delta and showed good team work as they sharpened their attack for their championship encounter with S. A. E.

BULLETIN

• LAST NIGHT at the University gym two new champions were crowned in their respective divisions. S. A. E., fraternity champs, and the Yankees, Independent title holders, will meet Thursday night, 8 p. m. at the University gymnasium.
